STANDING NOTICE

Concerning the Oubliette

*oubliette (n.): a place you put people to forget about them. We did not build it.
We only keep it tidy.*

NOTICE - NOT FOR POSTING

This ward is not on your Itinerary. That was on purpose. If you are reading this, you have taken a wrong turn - a remarkably thorough one. Well done. Now go back.

WARD The Oubliette, Sub-Level [REDACTED]

ADMISSIONS By [REDACTED] only. No appeals. (There is always one exception. It is not you.)

REINCARNATION Denied

NEXT REVIEW [REDACTED] (none scheduled, and none coming)

THIS DOCUMENT ASSUMES PRIOR PROCESSING.
UNPROCESSED SOULS SHOULD REPORT TO THE MUSHROOM BY THE SPA.

WHAT THIS PLACE IS FOR

The Oubliette holds the souls the Department decided should not go round again. What they did was [REDACTED], and then [REDACTED], and then - the part that settled it - [REDACTED]. We will spare you the details. We are sparing them too. Down here everyone is forgotten, equally and on time. That is the punishment. Tilt your head, and it is also the kindness.

ONE RULE, AND WE MEAN IT

Do not bring a light of your own. The souls here were promised the dark, and the dark is the one promise we keep. A small glow makes them stir. The wrong sort of glow - the kind the eye can barely catch - wakes them all the way. To shine it on them is to see them. To see them is to remember them. And remembering is the one thing they were told they would never have to do again.

So: no light. None at all. Whatever you do. We trust you completely. That is why we have now said it three times.
